

Transport Services

As the only pediatric specialty hospital between Dallas and Austin, Baylor Scott & White McLane Children's serves rapidly growing communities across a geographic area the size of New England. When other hospitals in our area encounter a sick or injured child in need of advanced care, our transport team is ready at a moment's notice to transfer patients to McLane Children's.

Our dedicated team is made up of registered nurses, respiratory therapists and EMTs who have specialized training in stabilizing, treating and transporting pediatric and neonatal patients. Our ambulance and helicopter are outfitted with equipment designed specifically for children, such as cardiac monitors, ventilators and defibrillators.

As the number of patients requiring transport increases, an additional ambulance will allow us to serve even more children throughout the region who need advanced care quickly.

With your help to purchase an additional ambulance, we can:

- Reduce response time to patients needing immediate medical attention
- Respond to multiple calls at once
- Decrease wear and tear and extend the life of our vehicles by distributing calls between two ambulances

In Fiscal Year 2024, the McLane Children's transport team responded to:

100+ calls per month

totaling 1,259 calls for the year

18% more calls than the previous year
